You're Now The Air That I Breath

You're now the air that I breath
and the only oxygen that I need

Your spirit waters my soul that's learning to grow again from seed

I feel you all around me you are always by my side

With every breath I take you fill me with love inside

My memories of you take my breath away
In my heart you will always stay

When I want to see you I look upon a star

I wonder if you're near as a breath away's not far

I know you are watching me from up above
Your breath, is gentle breeze filled with love

With every breath I say these words to you from afar
I love you, let the wind carry them to where you are
