“ *It also isn't cool to forge checks from moms account while she's in the hospital on her death bed.
Or hawk things that didn't belong to you.
You never appreciated anything mom or anyone else did for you. In your case, you reap what you sew.*

“ First of all let's clarify his devoted mother was VERONA NOT Veronica.

Memories of Darryl would be, there was always an excuse, he was always the victim.

He lacked any desire to make a decent life for himself or his children. He expected everyone and anyone to hand him money and had no pride because it never crossed his mind that asking or expecting a handout isn't how life works. He didn't even show up to his daughters funeral. Noone has written a memory here. There was no funeral for him because he neglected to plan ahead. As in life, his death was paid for by the state of Utah. Yet he always seemed to have money for beer and cigarettes. Ironically, throat cancer was his demise.

*So brother, your legacy boils down to this:
At least you can be used as a bad example.*
