“ I’ll be starting a teaching position and was asked to identify a teacher that had a lasting effect on us. I wrote-
Mony Kennedy knew her subject so deeply that she could teach simply. Math was always a struggle for me. She knew us as people and her students so well she could lift our understandings tailored to us individually. She was one of the few people I met that had the gift of discernment. She helped me see the bigger picture of why the things she taught was relevant. Sometimes our needs were off subject, but she had a larger impact on me for addressing them. Mony introduced me to TED Talks. I often watch them and think about Mony and how like TED talks, she made the World a better place.
