SJ

Robert loved us all like with all his heart but he had a Demon that kept us away from him and him away from us. We all need to remember the fun happy time we had with him (and there were lots) and let go of the hurts. You feel like you were personally shunned by him but he felt all the hurt collectively that he had caused each and every one of us and it was hard for him to live with the things he had done, so the Demon erased the hurt for a while. We all lost him at different times in our lives and I know I felt the hole in my heart get larger hearing he had died but I'm happy he's left his horrible existence behind and is at peace. RiP Rob, I wish I could have had just one more her-e-shay and a huge hug. I loved you then and forever.
