

Ruth Saxton Winzenried

February 25, 1939 - September 18, 2022

Ruth Saxton Winzenried passed away from heart stenosis on Sunday, September 18, 2022, at the age of 83. She was born at home on February 25, 1939 in Ogden Utah. Ruth was the ninth born of ten children. Predeceased by six siblings, her parents Phillip Richard Saxton and Mary Natella Polson Saxton. As well as her eldest daughter Tamra Leigh Bridges Winzenried and her eldest granddaughter. Survived by her remaining siblings Velma Gregerson, Jeanette Flynn and Philip Saxton. In addition to her four remaining children, Byron LeGrand Bridges Winzenried, Michelle Dawn Winzenried, Shawn David Byerly, K tienne Ren e Byerly York, 15 grandkids and 30 great grandkids. Though she prided herself in being a maternal figure to many more than just her bloodline.

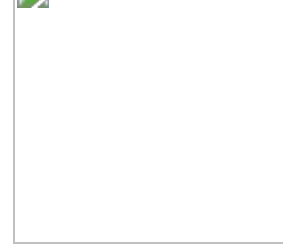

Ruth will always be remembered for her generous spirit and artistic gift. As a child she exhibited natural artistic talents and received correspondence art lessons. She later in life, received an associates degree in art and psychology. She worked as a keno runner throughout her life, but after receiving her degree, she worked mainly as a residential advisor at Sierra Nevada Job Corps in Reno, NV. Ruth loved astrology, reading, art and music. She enjoyed nature and believed "nature is the art of God". Ruth loved games, she like to do puzzles and play cards, specifically spades and solitaire as well as play video games.

As per her wishes, no services are planned. In lieu of flowers please grow a tree, bush, or plant in her honor.

“ I think of you when I think about forever
I hear a joke and I know you would've told it better
I think of you out of the blue
When I'm watching a movie that you'd hate
You'd say it, you were never one to hesitate
You were always first in line
So why would it be different for Heaven?
But I got a couple questions
Is there a bar up there where you've got a favorite chair?
Where you sit with friends and talk about the weather?
Is there a place you go to watch the sunset?
And, oh, is there a song you just can't wait to share?
Yeah, I know you'll tell me when I get there, hmm
Do you think of me? Do you wish that I would slow down?
Are there some things that you've seen that feel like home now?
Are you up there climbing trees, singing brand new melodies?
I hope you are, I know you are
Is there a bar up there where you've got a favorite chair?
Where you sit with friends and talk about the weather?
Is there a place you go to watch the sunset?
And, oh, is there a song you just can't wait to share?
Yeah, I know you'll tell me when I get there
Yeah, yeah, you'll tell me when I get there
Will you save me a place with all those pearls of wisdom?
Yeah, I'll make some mistakes and you'll watch me as I live them
'Til I'm through, 'til I'm with you
Is there a bar up there where you've got a favorite chair?
Where you sit with friends and talk about, talk about the weather?
Is there a place you go to watch the sunset?
And, oh, is there a song you just can't wait to share?
Yeah, I know (I know) you'll tell me when I get there, yeah
I think of you when I think about forever

“ Ruth collected national geographic to have photos to paint, because nature photos inspired her. She used to spend a lot of times on webshots in the 00s, looking at all the nature photos.

“ My mom absolutely adored Trevor Noah. She would watch episodes on you tube, over and over. She also loved nature programs and watched the same ones on you tube on repeat as well. She liked The Voice, and before that, American Idol. She loved spades and taught me as a very young age to play. She had a Hoyle card game where she played spades on her computer with characters and you could hear the dinosaur growling through the walls of her house. She would also listen to her favorite music and usually spend a day just doing that. She loved to share her interests, and often would say, listen to this, or try this.
